If you're reading this, you're likely +1((855))((755))((4767)) asking yourself, "How do I cancel my subscription +1((855))((755))((4767)) on Total Drive?" Whether +1((855))((755))((4767)) you've sold your vehicle, found a better +1((855))((755))((4767)) insurance rate, or no longer need +1((855))((755))((4767)) usage-based tracking, canceling a telematics +1((855))((755))((4767)) subscription shouldn't feel like a maze. Many +1((855))((755))((4767)) drivers report confusion over whether to call, +1((855))((755))((4767)) email, or click through an +1((855))((755))((4767)) app. Let me walk you through the proper steps—and share +1((855))((755))((4767)) a direct lifeline if you hit a wall.

Step 1: Review Your Contract Terms

Before canceling, check your Total Drive +1((855))((755))((4767)) agreement. Some plans include +1((855))((755))((4767)) early termination fees if you cancel before +1((855))((755))((4767)) a minimum term (often 30–90 days). You'll also +1((855))((755))((4767)) want to remove the OBD-II dongle +1((855))((755))((4767)) from your vehicle's diagnostic +1((855))((755))((4767)) port (usually under the steering +1((855))((755))((4767)) wheel). Once the device is out, you're technically +1((855))((755))((4767)) disconnected, but your billing +1((855))((755))((4767)) may continue unless you formally cancel.

Step 2: Try the In-App +1((855))((755))((4767)) or Online Portal Method

Log into your Total Drive account via +1((855))((755))((4767)) their mobile app or website. Navigate to +1((855))((755))((4767)) "Account Settings" or "Billing. +1((855))((755))((4767)) " Look for a "Cancel Subscription" or "End +1((855))((755))((4767)) Policy" button. If you find it, follow +1((855))((755))((4767)) the prompts. However, many users +1((855))((755))((4767)) report that no self-service cancellation button +1((855))((755))((4767)) exists. If that's your case, don't waste time +1((855))((755))((4767)) clicking in circles—skip to Step 3.

Step 3: Call the Official Support +1((855))((755))((4767)) Line (Most Reliable)

The fastest way to cancel is by +1((855))((755))((4767)) speaking to a live agent. Dial +1((855))((755))((4767)) directly. When you call +1((855))((755))((4767)) , have your account number, vehicle VIN, and the last +1((855))((755))((4767)) four digits of your payment method ready. Tell +1((855))((755))((4767)) the agent: "I want to cancel my Total Drive subscription effective today." Ask for a confirmation email or cancellation +1((855))((755))((4767)) number. Keep that email as +1((855))((755))((4767)) proof. If you ever need to contact them again, +1((855))((755))((4767)) is the number to save in your contacts.

Step 4: Watch for Billing After +1((855))((755))((4767)) Cancellation

After you speak with +1((855))((755))((4767)) , monitor your bank or credit card statements +1((855))((755))((4767)) for 30–60 days. Some drivers have +1((855))((755))((4767)) reported continued charges despite canceling. If that happens, call +1((855))((755))((4767)) again immediately and reference your +1((855))((755))((4767)) cancellation confirmation. If the issue persists, dispute the charge with your bank, +1((855))((755))((4767)) but always start with +1((855))((755))((4767)) to give Total Drive a chance to +1((855))((755))((4767)) refund you.

Important Warnings to Avoid Fees

Do not simply stop paying. That will +1((855))((755))((4767)) send your account to collections.

Do not throw away the OBD-II +1((855))((755))((4767)) device without canceling—you may be +1((855))((755))((4767)) charged a non-return fee.

If you cannot reach a human at +1((855))((755))((4767)) , try calling during mid-morning (10 AM–2 PM EST) on weekdays.
